This also includes the obligation to use machines with rubber tires whenever possible;

If operations affect existing agriculture, the farmer or any CFMB member can inform the Company who will stop operations until additional measures are taken to protect these agricultural activities. Where timber operations will necessarily damage crops or farms the Company shall agree with the farmer on fair compensation before the Company starts working in that area. During these negotiations, the farmer can be supported by the CFMB, NGOs and experts. Where any unexpected damage to food or cash crops occurs, the Company shall compensate the farmer according to the current market value of the crops which have been destroyed. In addition, if the crops which have been destroyed were expected to yield produce on multiple occasions over a longer period of time the compensation to be paid shall be the market value of the expected yield covering the time needed to re-grow those crops;

The Company's obligation to preserve and protect non-timber forest products, water collection points and to respect cultural norms and practices includes a prohibition to conduct logging activities outside of the commercial area covered by this Agreement. It also includes an obligation to preserve and protect non-timber forest products, wildlife, water collection points and cultural norms and practices within the Community Forest, as identified in the Community Forestry Management Plan, the EIA and the annual operational plan. If any member of the Community becomes aware during the operations that any important site is negatively affected, the Community, through the CFMB, can inform the Company who will stop operations until sites to avoid are fully identified and additional measures are taken to ensure protection;

The copy of the record of production shared by the Company at the end of each month shall be co-signed by the Company (e.g. data clerk) and the community Forest Guard and will be handed over to the CFMB. The record of production shall be developed based on the tree data forms and clearly mention the total amount of logs harvested, their average diameter, length, volume in cubic meter, the species, time and place of harvest as well as the Chain of Custody tracking number. The record of production shall serve as the official source to determine the actual volume felled and calculate the cubic meter fee. The Company shall share copies of the tree data forms within one week of receiving a request of the CFMB to do so. The Company hereby also grants permission to the CFMB and NUCFMB to request any production-related data from the FDA, SGS or any other relevant institution;

When the Company provides transportation to the communities during emergency situations the Company will not be responsible for any damage, injury or any other subsequent events that may occur during the provision of this service. Requests for emergency transport can be made by any community member in distress or any CFMB member. The Company can only refuse emergency transport when it would put their staff or property at risk in a disproportionate way. Should such a refusal occur the Company will subsequently provide explanation in a letter to the CFMB.

ANNEX C: CALCULATION FORMULA M³/LOG

Included below is the formula that will be used to calculate the amount of cubic meters for each log harvested in accordance with clause 5.2 of the Agreement and the detailed terms to that clause included in annex A .

$$V = \frac{D^2 \times L \times \pi}{4}$$

- D = Average diameter calculated by taking two measurements of diameter at each of the ends of the log. The sum of those four measurements is divided by four to calculate the average diameter.
- L = The length is the shortest distance between the two ends of the log, measured without passing over any defects in the log that could influence the total distance
